

Interra Credit Union Announces Dan Temple as New Paris Branch Manager

IMMEDIATE RELEASE, September 30, 2025 – Liz Borntrager, Vice President, Senior Manager Retail Delivery, announced that Dan Temple has been named Assistant Vice President, Manager Retail Branch at Interra's New Paris branch. Temple brings a strong foundation of experience, leadership, and community connection to the role.

Prior to this promotion, Temple served as a Mortgage Loan Officer and Advisor Team Leader at Interra. He joined the organization after working in social work and church leadership, bringing a heart for service and a people-first approach to the credit union. Over the years, he has built deep connections across departments and gained insight into many areas of the credit union's operations.

Dan Temple

"The knowledge and relationships I've accumulated have positioned me to be an effective leader in New Paris," said Temple. "I'm excited to expand my involvement in a community I've already been connected to for several years."

Driven by a passion for helping others, Temple finds fulfillment in supporting both Interra members and his team. "My biggest drive is connecting with and helping people. Whether it's our members or my team, I enjoy getting to know others and guiding them toward financial and professional success," he added.

Outside of work, Temple enjoys spending time with his wife, a Special Education teacher in local schools, and their four sons, who attend Fairfield Community Schools.
