July 6, 2021 – Interra Credit Union recently donated nearly 600 pounds of clothing items to Forgotten Children Worldwide located in Bluffton, Indiana. The clothes were contributed by Interra staff through a clothing collection day.

“FCW sends more than 1,000 boxes of clothing to the impoverished 6 times a year,” stated Meegan Siegwarth, Vice President of Marketing for Interra. “By providing clothing to Forgotten Children Worldwide, Interra Credit Union is giving dignity to vulnerable families in Malawi and India,” stated Kody Kumfer, Associate Executive Director for Forgotten Children Worldwide. “We appreciate their partnership,” he added.

“Interra couldn’t think of a better way to live out one of our core values to be involved,” shared Andy Marshall, Chief Operating Officer at Interra. “Knowing we’re able to literally put clothes on the backs of people around the world helps Interra and our staff remain firmly grounded in living with integrity, providing excellence, and to be invested in making a difference.”
